INDEX TO VOLUME XIII

ARTICLES AND AUTHORS

Adams, Charles Darwin—College Preparation in Character, 606–15.

Adams, E. C.—Secondary-School Conference on the Parent Problem, 642, 643.

Algebra, Economics in, Joseph V. Collins, 324–30.

Algebra, Suggestions for Modification in the Order and Time of Presenting, A. R. Taylor, 331–36.

Allen, W. H.—School Policy via School Facts, 474–91.

Arnold, Frank R.—"Couleur Locale" in the French Classroom, 540–43.

Athletic Peace Conference, Virgil Prettyman, 816, 817.

Athletic Professionalism and its Remedies, Edwin H. Hall, 758–68.
Discusssion: Arthur W. Roberts, Flavel S. Luther, Huber Gray Buehler, George E. Fellows, Alfred E. Stearns, 768–88.

Athletics—Report of Committee of the North Central Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools (Editorial), George H. Locke, 510–13.

Bailey, Forrest C.—Fossilization Among Teachers of English, 712–16.

Barrows, Anna—The Lunch-Room in the Public High School, 213–20.

Bassett, R. E.—An Explanation (Correspondence), 274.

Beede, Frank H.—The Public High-School Building at New Haven, Conn. (illustrated), 89–104.

Bell, A. J.—Virgil and the Drama, 458–74.

Bellows, I. F.—The Educational Value of the History of France, 702–11.

Bibliography, Recent Educational, J. I. Wyer, 648–53.

Birds, Winter Habits of, Lynds Jones, 29–33.

Bishop, J. Remsen—Do Latin and Greek Need Something Done for Them in the Secondary School? 689–95.

Brown, Harold H.—Appearance Drawing in the High School (illustrated), 531–38.

Brown, J. Stanley—Six-Year High-School Course, 15–18.

Buehler, Huber Gray.—Athletic Professionalism and its Remedies, 780, 781.

Building—The Public High-School Building at New Haven, Conn. (illustrated), Frank H. Beede, 89–104.

Cabell, Elvira D.—An Aspect of the Work of the Teacher of English, 560–66.

Cæsar, A Visit to the Battlefields of, (illustrated), Walter Dennison, 139–49.

Chamberlin, W. A.—Comparative Study of Words in Foreign Languages, 315–23.

Character, College Preparation in, Charles Darwin Adams, 606–15.

Character—President Butler's Address of Welcome to the Students at Columbia University (Editorial), George H. Locke, 735, 736.

Character—President Eliot's Address of Welcome to New Students at Harvard (Editorial) George H. Locke, 734, 735.

Chicago Teachers' Federation — Miss Margaret Haley Defines the Attitude of the Chicago Teachers' Federation toward the Public-School System (Editorial), George H. Locke, 658, 659.

Chicago—The High Schools of Chicago, 1903 (Editorial), George H. Locke, 190–93.

Church, School and, W. D. Parkinson, 661–77.

145964

Classical Conferences, A Retrospect of Ten, Francis W. Kelsey, 423–28.
Coe, George Albert—The Religious Spirit in the Secondary School, 581–96.
Coeducational College—Its Social Life, Edward S. Parsons, 382–89.
College Entrance Examination Board, Fifth Annual Report (Editorial), George H. Locke, 732, 733.
College Entrance Examination Board, Report of the Member from New England, William Gallagher, 801–4.
College Entrance Requirements and Secondary School Work, J. C. Kirtland, 818–27.
Collins, Joseph V.—Economics in Algebra, 324–30.
Commission of Twenty-one, 23–25.
Comparative Study of Words in Foreign Languages, W. A. Chamberlin, 315–23.
Comstock, D. Y.—Secondary-School Conference on Good and Bad Discipline, 644, 645.
Culture Studies, The Nature of, R. M. Wenley, 441–57.
Dennison, Walter—A Visit to the Battlefields of Cæsar (illustrated), 139–49.
Design and Crafts in the High School (illustrated), Hugo B. Froelich, 521–30.
Development and Training of the Will, H. H. Horne, 616–34.
Development of the Curriculum and the Preservation of the Daily Recitation, E. C. Rowe, 411–22.
Die neueren Sprachen, Paul O. Kern, 51–54.
Dillon, Theresa, Neuphilologisches Centralblatt, 57–59.
Discipline, Secondary-School Conference on Good and Bad, D. Y. Comstock, 644, 645.
Drawing—Appearance Drawing in the High School (illustrated), Harold H. Brown, 531–38.
Discussion: Martha A. Hulburt, 538, 539.
Economics in Algebra, Joseph V. Collins, 324–30.
Elective System in Public High Schools William T. Foster, 150–58, 243–62.
England, The Educational Situation in, 1904, Foster Watson, 105–26.
English, An Aspect of the Work of the Teacher of, Elvira D. Cabell, 560–66.
English as Spoken by Americans, Mr. Henry James on—(Editorial), George H. Locke, 829.
English Composition, Class Criticism as a Means of Teaching, E. C. Noyes, 696–701.
English, Departmental Conference, 41, 42.
English, Fossilization Among Teachers of, Forrest C. Bailey, 712–16.
English—Report of the Delegates to the Conference on Uniform Entrance Requirements in English, Mary A. Jordan, 795–800.
English Secondary Schools—Mr. Cloudesley Brereton's Comparison between These and French Secondary Schools (Editorial), George H. Locke, 514–16.
English Teacher and Spelling Question, Frances Symmes, 42–51.
"Euphorion," Zeitschrift für Literaturgeschichte, Lydia M. Schmidt, 55–57.
Evans, George W.—Measurement Theorems in Geometry, 307–14.
Explanation (Correspondence), R. E. Bassett, 274.
Fellows, George E.—Athletic Professionalism and Its Remedies, 781, 782.
First-Year Pupils—Why Do so Many Pupils Leave the Public High School During the First Year? Reuben Post Halleck, 551–59.
Foreign Languages, Comparative Study of Words in, W. A. Chamberlin, 315–22.
Formal Discipline, A Study in, F. C. Lewis, 281–92.
Fossilization Among Teachers of English, Forrest C. Bailey, 712–16.
Foster, Herbert D.—The Actual Working of the History Syllabus for Secondary Schools, 571–74.

Foster, William T.—The Elective System in Public High Schools, 150–58, 243–62. To What Extent Should Artistic and Utilitarian Subjects in School and College Count Toward the Degree of A.B.? 805–12.

Fraternities in Secondary Schools—Report of the Committee of the Educational Conference at University of Chicago, Spencer R. Smith, 1–10.

Fraternities—Secondary School Fraternities Not a Factor in Determining Scholarship (Correspondence), Phil. B. Kohlsaat, 272–74.

French, C. W.—School City, 33–41.

French—"Couleur Locale" in the French Classroom, Frank R. Arnold, 540–43.

French in the High School, Thomas A. Jenkins, 77–83.

French Secondary Schools—Mr. Cloudesley Brereton's Comparison between these and English Secondary Schools (Editorial), George H. Locke, 514–16.

Froelich, Hugo B.—Design and Crafts in the High School (illustrated), 521–30.

Gallagher, William—Report of the Member of the College Entrance Examination Board, 801–4.

Geometry, Measurement Theorems in, George W. Evans, 307–14.

German—The Teaching of German in German Middle-Class Schools, O. Thiergen, 682–88.

Germany, The Size of Classes in the Schools of (Editorial), George H. Locke, 268, 269.

Gimbel, Amanda—Zeitschrift des Allgemeinen deutschen Sprachvereins, 55–57.

Goetz, Philip Becker—The Decline of Greek (Correspondence), 349–51.

Gordon, Kate—Wherein Should the Education of a Woman Differ from That of a Man, 789–94.

Graves, Frank P.—The Educational Museum at Paris (illustrated), 127–38.

Greek in English, E. L. Miller, 390–97.

Greek, the Decline of (Correspondence), Philip Becker Goetz, 349–51.

Hall, Edwin H.—Athletic Professionalism and its Remedies, 758–68.

Halleck, Reuben Post—Why Do so Many Pupils Leave the Public High School during the First Year? 551–59.

Hanus, Paul H.—Technical Continuation Schools of Munich, 678–83.

Hedgepeth, Victor W. B.—Six-Year High-School Plan at Goshen, Ind., 19–23.

High-School Student Organizations, A. Wetzel, 429–33.

History of France, The Educational Value of the, I. F. Bellows, 702–11.

History Syllabus for Secondary Schools, Herbert D. Foster, 571–74.

Hitchcock, A. H.—Voluntary Reading, 188, 189.

Horne, H. H.—The Development and Training of the Will, 616–34.

How Shall Pupils Be Taught to Estimate Themselves? W. J. Tucker, 597–605.

Howe, Clifton D.—Study of Trees in Winter, 25–29.

Hulburt, Martha A.—Appearance Drawing in the High School, 538, 539.

Huling, Ray Greene.—To What Extent Should Artistic and Utilitarian Subjects in School and College Count toward the Degree of A.B.? 812–15.

Huse, Isaac—Elementary-School Conference on the Parent Problem, 645–47.

Incentives—School Incentives (Elementary School Conference), W. D. Parkinson, 645.

Inspection of Schools by the University of London and the Leaving Certificate (Editorial), George H. Locke, 346–48.

Jenkins, Thomas A.—A Brief for French in the High School, 77–83.

Jones, Lynds—Winter Habits of Birds, 29–33.

Jordan, Mary A.—Report of the Delegates to the Conference on Uniform College Entrance Requirements in English, 795–800.

Keller, Paul G. W.—Open School Organizations, 10–14.

Kelsey, Francis W.—Ten Classical Conferences—A Retrospect, 423–28.

Kern, Paul O.—Die neueren Sprachen, 51–54; The Question of Translation in the Teaching of Modern Languages, 293–306.

King, Mary Fifield—Mr. Brooks on Poetry (Correspondence), 270–72.

Kirtland J. C.—College Entrance Requirements and Secondary School Work, 818–27.

Knapp, Charles—Some Points in the Literary Study of Virgil, 492–508.

Kohlsaat, Phil. B.—Secondary-School Fraternities Not a Factor in Determining Scholarship (Correspondence), 272–74.

Larkins, Charles D.—The Manual Training High School of Brooklyn, N. Y. (illustrated), 741–57.

Latin and Greek—Do Latin and Greek Need Something Done for Them in the Secondary School? J. Remsen Bishop, 689–95.

Latin and Greek in the Secondary Schools of Germany (Editorial), George H. Locke, 434.

Latin Literature, Lost Parts of—Andrew F. West, 371–81.

Lewis, F. C.—A Study in Formal Discipline, 281–92.

Literature in the High School, Oral Reading as an Aid in the Interpretation of, Emerson Venable, 337–41.

London, Secondary Education in (Editorial), George H. Locke, 193, 194.

Lost Parts of Latin Literature, Andrew F. West, 371–81.

Lunch-Room at the Englewood (Chicago) High School (illustrated), Edwin L. Miller, 201–12.

Lunch-Room in the Public High School, Anna Barrows, 213–20.

Luther, Flavel S.—Athletic Professionalism and Its Remedies, 777–80.

Major, David R.—School Legislation in Ohio, 221–31.

Manual Training, High School of, Brooklyn, N. Y. (illustrated), Charles D. Larkins, 741–57.

Massachusetts, Education in (Editorial), George H. Locke, 267, 268.

Mathematics—A Review of Some Recent French Books Dealing in Concrete Methods of Teaching Mathematics, J. W. A. Young, 275–79.

Mathematics, Radical and Conservative Elements in the Teaching of, Mabel Sykes, 59–68.

Measurement Theorems in Geometry, George W. Evans, 307–14.

Mechanics—What Amount of Mechanics is it Desirable to Introduce into a First-Year Course in Physics, and in What Position Should it Come? W. B. Tower, 69–72.

Miller, Edwin L.—The Lunch-Room at the Englewood (Chicago) High School, 201–12; The Greek in English, 390–97.

Miner, Lilian B.—Voluntary Reading in the English High School, 180–90.

Minneapolis, The Progress of Secondary Education in (Editorial), George H. Locke, 269.

Modern Languages, The Question of Translation in the Teaching of, Paul O. Kern, 293–306.

Morrison, Gilbert B.—Social Ethics in High-School Life, 361–70.

Museum—The Educational Museum at Paris (illustrated), Frank P. Graves, 127–38.

Nature of Culture Studies, R. M. Wenley, 441–57.

Neuphilologisches Centralblatt, Theresa Dillon, 57–59.

New York, The Progress of Education in the State of (Editorial), George H. Locke, 194, 195.

North Carolina—The Marvelous Progress of Education in North Carolina (Editorial), George H. Locke, 660.

Noyes, E. C.—Class Criticism as a Means of Teaching English Composition, 696–701.

Ohio, School Legislation in, David R. Major, 221–31.
Ohio, The Extraordinary Education Act of the State of (Editorial), George H. Locke, 193.
Open School Organizations, Paul G. W. Keller, 10–14.
Oral Reading as an Aid in the Interpretation of Literature in the High School, Emerson Venable, 337–41.
Parent Problem, D. C. Wells, 635–41; Secondary-School Conference, E. C. Adams, 642, 643; Elementary-School Conference, Isaac Huse, 645–47.
Parkinson, W. D.—Elementary-School Conference on School Incentives, 645; The School and the Church, 661–77.
Parsons, Edward S.—Social Life of the Coeducational College, 382–89.
Perrine, C. H.—To What Extent is it Possible to Introduce into the High-School Course in Physics a Study of the Practical Applications of Physics to Industry? 73–75.
Physics—To What Extent is it Possible to Introduce into the High-School Course in Physics a Study of the Practical Applications of Physics to Industry? C. H. Perrine, 73–75.
Physics—What Amount of Mechanics is it Desirable to Introduce into a First-Year Course in Physics, and in What Position Should it Come? W. B. Tower, 69–72.
Poetry, Mr. Brooks on (Correspondence), Mary Fifield King, 270–72.
Prettyman, Virgil—Athletic Peace Conference, 816, 817.
Public-Speaking Conference, 75, 76.
Question of Translation in the Teaching of Modern Languages, Paul O. Kern, 293–306.
Reading, Voluntary, A. H. Hitchcock, 188, 189.
Voluntary, Mr. Winter, 189, 190.
Voluntary Reading in Elementary Schools, E. H. Russell, 159–67.
Voluntary Reading in the Classical High School, Samuel Thurber, Jr., 168–79.
Voluntary Reading in the English High School, Lilian B. Miner, 180–90.
Religious Spirit in the Secondary School George Albert Coe, 581–96.
Roberts, Arthur W.—Athletic Professionalism and Its Remedies, 768–77.
Romance Department Conference, 83, 84.
Roote, Clarence B.—The Superintendent and the High School, 232–42.
Rowe, E. C.—Development of the Curriculum and the Preservation of the Daily Recitation, 411–22.
Russell, E. H.—Voluntary Reading in Elementary Schools, 159–67.
Salaries of Principals of Our High Schools (Editorial), George H. Locke, 830–32.
Salaries of Teachers in our High Schools (Editorial), George H. Locke, 265–67.
Schmidt, Lydia M.—"Euphorion," Zeitschrift für Literaturgeschichte, 55–57.
School and Church, W. D. Parkinson, 661–77.
School City, C. W. French, 33–41.
School Policy via School Facts, W. H. Allen, 474–91.
School Policy via School Facts, Halle D. Woods, 544–50.
Science in the Secondary Schools of Germany (Editorial), George H. Locke, 509, 510.
Scientific Method in Investigation into Educational Conditions (Editorial), George H. Locke, 342–46.
Scientific Professions for our College Graduates, The Development of (Editorial), George H. Locke, 434–37.
Secondary Education—Suggestions in Regard to Secondary Education from Mr. Sadler's Latest Report (Editorial), George H. Locke, 567–70.
Secondary School Teaching, An Illustration of the Uncertain Tenure of Office in (Editorial), George H. Locke, 736, 737.

Self-Government, President Roosevelt on (Editorial), George H. Locke, 659, 660.
Shakespeare, A Speculation Regarding, E. C. Venable, 717–31.
Six-Year High-School Course, J. Stanley Brown, 15–18.
Six-Year High-School Plan at Goshen, Ind., Victor W. B. Hedgepeth, 19–23.
Smith Spencer R.—Fraternities in Secondary Schools, 1–10.
Social Ethics in High-School Life, Gilbert B. Morrison, 361–70.
Social Life of the Coeducational College Edward S. Parsons, 382–89.
Some Points in the Literary Study of Virgil, Charles Knapp, 492–508.
South, A Significant Forward Movement in Secondary Education in the (Editorial), George H. Locke, 263–65.
Spelling Question, The English Teacher and the, Frances Symmes, 42–51.
Spelling Reform in France (Editorial), George H. Locke, 513, 514.
Stearns, Alfred E.—Athletic Professionalism and its Remedies, 782–88.
Student Organizations in a High School, A. Wetzel, 429–33.
Study in Formal Discipline, F. C. Lewis, 281–92.
Study of Trees in Winter, Clifton D. Howe, 25–29.
Suggestions for Modification in the Order and Time of Presenting Algebra, A. R. Taylor, 331–36.
Superintendent and the High School, Clarence B. Roote, 232–42.
Sykes, Mabel—Radical and Conservative Elements in the Teaching of Mathematics, 59–69.
Symmes, Frances—The English Teacher and the Spelling Question, 42–51.
Taylor, A. R.—Suggestions for Modifications in the Order and Time of Presenting Algebra, 331–36.
Technical Continuation Schools of Munich, Paul H. Hanus, 678–83.
Technical School in Naples, Alida S. Williams, 398–410.
Thiergen, O.—The Teaching of German in German Middle-Class Schools, 684–88.
Three-Year Course—The Proposal to Establish a Three-Year Course at Harvard University for the Bachelor of Arts Degree (Editorial), George H. Locke, 654–56.
Thurber, Jr., Samuel—Voluntary Reading in the Classical High School, 168–79.
To What Extent Should Artistic and Utilitarian Subjects in School and College Count Toward the Degree of A.B.? 805–12.
Discussion: W. T. Foster, Ray Greene Huling, 812–15.
Tower, W. B.—What Amount of Mechanics Is it Desirable to Introduce into a First-Year Course in Physics, and in What Position Should it Come? 69–72.
Trees in Winter, Study of, Clifton D. Howe, 25–29.
Tucker, W. J.—How Shall Pupils Be Taught to Estimate Themselves? 597–605.
University and College in America and the Preceptorial Plan Adopted at Princeton University (Editorial), George H. Locke, 656–58.
Venable, Emerson.—Oral Reading as an Aid in the Interpretation of Literature in the High School, 337–41.
A Speculation Regarding Shakespeare, 717–31.
Virgil and the Drama, A. J. Bell, 458–74.
Virgil—Some Points in the Literary Study of Virgil, Charles Knapp, 492–508.
Watson, Foster—The Educational Situation in England, 1904, 105–26.
Wells, D. C.—The Parent Problem, 635–41.
Wenley, R. M., The Nature of Culture Studies, 441–57.
West, Andrew F.—The Lost Parts of Latin Literature, 371–81.

Wetzel, A.—Student Organizations in a High School, 429–33.
Why do so Many Pupils Leave the Public High School During the First Year? Reuben Post Halleck, 551–59.
Will, The Development and Training of the, H. H. Horne, 616–34.
Williams, Alida S.—A Technical School in Naples, 398–410.
Winter, Mr.—Voluntary Reading, 189, 190.
Winter Habits of Birds, Lynds Jones, 29–33.
Women—Wherein Should the Education of a Woman Differ from that of a Man, Kate Gordon, 789–94.
Woods, Halle D.—School Policy via School Facts, 544–50.
Wyer, J. I.—Recent Educational Bibliography, 648–53.
Young, J. W. A.—A Review of Some Recent French Books Dealing in Concrete Methods of Teaching Mathematics, 275–79.
Zeitschrift des Allgemeinen deutschen Sprachvereins, Amanda Gimbel, 55–57.

EDITORIAL NOTES — GEORGE HERBERT LOCKE

The High Schools of Chicago, 1903, 190–93.
The Extraordinary Education Act of the State of Ohio, 193.
Secondary Education in London, 193, 194.
The Progress of Education in the State of New York, 194, 195.
A Significant Forward Movement in Secondary Education in the South, 263–65.
The Salaries of Teachers in Our High Schools, 265–67.
Education in Massachusetts, 267, 268.
The Size of Classes in the Schools of Germany, 268, 269.
The Progress of Secondary Education in Minneapolis, 269.
The Opportunities for Scientific Method in Investigation into Educational Conditions, 342–46.
The Inspection of Schools by the University of London and the Leaving Certificate, 346–48.
The Status of Latin and Greek in the Secondary Schools of Germany, 434.
The Development of New Scientific Professions for Our College Graduates, 434–37.
Science in the Secondary Schools of Germany, 509, 510.
Report of the Committee on Athletics of the North Central Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools, 510–13.
Spelling Reform in France, 513, 514.
Mr. Cloudesley Brereton's Comparison between English and French Secondary Schools, 514–16.
Suggestions in Regard to Secondary Education from Mr. Sadler's Latest Report, 567–70.
The Proposal to Establish a Three-Year Course at Harvard University for the Bachelor of Arts Degree, 654–56.
The University and the College in America and the Preceptorial Plan Adopted at Princeton University, 656–58.
Miss Margaret Haley Defines the Attitude of the Chicago Teachers' Federation toward the Public-School System, 658, 659.
President Roosevelt on Self-Government, 659, 660.
The Marvelous Progress of Education in North Carolina, 660.
The Fifth Annual Report of the College Entrance Examination Board, 732, 733.
President Eliot's Address of Welcome to New Students at Harvard, 733, 734.

President Butler's Address of Welcome to the Students at Columbia University, 734, 735.
An Illustration of the Uncertain Tenure of Office in Secondary School Teaching and Administration, 736, 737.
Valedictory of the Editor, 728.
Mr. Henry James on English as Spoken by Americans, 729.
The Salaries of Principals of Our High Schools as Reported by the Committee on Salaries, Tenure, and Pensions Appointed by the National Educational Association, 830–32.

BOOK REVIEWS

Adolescence: Its Psychology and its Relations to Physiology, Anthropology, Sociology, Sex, Crime, Religion and Education (G. Stanley Hall), Willard C. Gore, 352–54.
The Child: His Thinking, Feeling and Doing (Amy Eliza Tanner), Daniel P. MacMillan, 578, 579.
Fundamentals of Child Study (Edwin A. Kirkpatrick), Daniel P. MacMillan, 576–78.
Education as Adjustment (M. V. O'Shea), W. W. Charters, 279, 280.
The Making of our Middle Schools: An Account of the Development of Secondary Education in the United States (Elmer Ellsworth Brown), Frank Pierrepont Graves, 354.
A Modern School (Paul H. Hanus), J. L. Meriam, 198–200.
Our Schools, Their Administration and Supervision (W. E. Chancellor), Junius L. Meriam, 517–19.
The Secret of Herbart (F. H. Hayward), Lillian Thompson, 574, 575.
The Elements of Rhetoric and Composition (Ashley H. Thorndike), John Maxwell Crowe, 579, 580.
Elementary English Composition for High Schools and Academies (Fred. H. Sykes), John Maxwell Crowe, 580.
An Abridged History of Greek Literature (Alfred and Maurice Croiset), John C. Rolfe, 738.
The Ancient World (Willis M. West), W. L. Westermann, 519.
Mediæval and Modern History, (Philip V. Myers), M. W. Jernegon, 739.
The British Nation (George M. Wrong), W. H. Cushing, 356–57.
The Actual Working of the History Syllabus for Secondary Schools Herbert D. Foster, 571–74.
A History Syllabus for Secondary Schools (Herbert D. Foster), Edward Tuthill, 438.
A History of England (Charles M. Andrews), W. H. Cushing, 356.
A Short History of England (Edward P. Cheyney), W. H. Cushing, 356–57.
Advanced Course in Algebra (Webster Wells), George W. Myers, 86, 87.
Elements of Plane Surveying (Samuel Marx Barton), George W. Myers, 85, 86.
Mathematics—Some Recent French Views on Concrete Methods of Teaching Mathematics—a review of some books on the subject, J. W. A. Young, 275–79.
Núñez de Arce's Haz de Leña, R. E. Bassett, 357–59.
Avogadro and Dalton—The Standing in Chemistry of Their Hypotheses (Andrew N. Meldrum), Lauder W. Jones, 439.
A Chemistry Manual (John Whitmore), R. H. Brownlee, 576.
The Teaching of Biology (F. E. Lloyd and M. A. Bigelow), Otis W. Caldwell, 196–98.